WA geology themed day-hike where you will explore volcanoes, craters, sediment piles, geothermal areas and explosive craters. As a part of the tour you will take a bath in an allnatural geothermal river. A bus picks participants up from the town Hveragerði and drives them back to Úlfjótsvatn.

The activity is ...

- ... Available from May to August
- ... Including a coach ride
- ... A whole day's worth of fun
- ... Run by a guide with good knowledge of geology
- ... Well suited for those with some level of fitness and mobility

About the activity:

The route is similar to the "Hiking Trail" and is about 19 km (12 miles) in total.

This is a demanding hike, with different terrains and some steep hills.

Departure from Úlfjótsvatn is at 10.00 am.

A guide with great knowledge of geology will lead the way. Should you require more guides, they can be provided at additional cost. Please add this request when booking.

You'll need hiking boots, warm and waterproof outdoor clothing, packed lunch, swimwear, towel, water bottle.

You will arrive at Úlfjótsvatn again in time for dinner.
